Less hours, probation for embattled health director

Hurley hangs on to job, has 90 days to show improvement

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

After three and a half hours in closed session, the Anderson County Board of Health voted 9-2 Thursday night to reduce health director Brandon Hurley's full-time position to part-time status, including contingencies for a 90-day probationary period and improvement plan.

Hurley

Hurley and the board have come under public ire and scrutiny regarding the health department's 2008 decision to build a new health department building as well as the department's mounting debt.

Addressing the public attending the special-called meeting, board chairman Dr. Andrew Bustin said the board did everything right and correct, and explored all of its options, such as inviting acting public health commissioner Dr. Steve Davis to attend the meeting.

"I want you to understand that we took this extremely seriously," Bustin said. "Otherwise, we wouldn't have spent 3 1/2 hours on it."

Both Bustin and Joy Hoskins, board member, voted against the motion. Dr. Mark Tussey was the only board member absent during the special-called meeting.

With the assistance of county attorney Bobbi Jo Lewis, board member Dr. Matthew Byers made the motion to reduce the health director position to a three-day work week, 7 1/2 hours a day, 22 1/2 hours a week.

As of press time, Bustin said he could not answer as to whether or not Hurley's benefits, such as health insurance, would remain in place with Hurley's reduction in hours.

Hurley will also be subject to a 90-day probationary period should he agree to the board's proposed 90-day improvement plan, which will be presented to Hurley prior to the board's

Girl to celebrate unique birthday

From staff reports

Makayela Lewis is no stranger to the number 11.

Born on Nov. 11 (11-11) in 2000, the Lawrenceburg youngster will celebrate her 11th birthday on Friday, Nov. 11.

Lewis

That means Makayela will turn 11 on 11-11-11, which is something you just don't see every day.

In fact, the next time the calendar will read 11-11-11 it will be Nov. 11, 2111.

Here's hoping that Makayela, who will turn 111 on the next 11-11-11, is still around to enjoy it.

'Why veterans serve'

Anderson County soldiers share sad, poignant remembrances of serving their country

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

The veteran serves — whenever and wherever they're called.

At the American Legion Auxiliary Veterans Day service on Sunday, that sentiment was echoed in the prayers, the songs and the speeches made at Patriot Hall.

Auxiliary Post 34 vice president Pam Rice spoke not only as a member of the Legion, but as a mother of a son in active duty.

Rice, who said her son will be returning from Iraq in two weeks, said she didn't know what a veteran meant until her son was deployed.

She hopes that other soldiers will follow her son home, and that she prays for others to remember the sacrifice veterans have made for them.

"And that somehow, some way, the citizens of the United States of America will think about what it really means to be a veteran," she said.

Perry spent his 21st birthday in a World War II prison camp.

In 1944, Perry was captured among the hedgerows in France, and taken to a POW camp close to Mooseburg, Germany, to dig potatoes from the ground.

He grew up on a farm in Avenstoke, raising tobacco and cattle.

DAMAGES, NO INJURIES

A Chevy pickup truck sits crumpled in a ditch Monday morning after it and another truck sideswiped each other on Highway 44, just west of Glensboro. The pickup and a Walters Buildings truck narrowly avoided a head-on collision, emergency personnel at the scene said. Neither driver sustained serious injuries, and declined medical attention. Responding were the Anderson County Sheriff's Office, EMS and fire department.

percent to 37 percent victory over Democrat Robert Farmer.

In an election that was forecast to have a turnout under 30 percent of registered voters, Anderson voters turned out at around 34 percent.

"We had an expected high turnout in Alton and West Alton precincts," County Clerk Jason Denny said, adding that those two precincts include a large number of state employees.

Denny said the only problem of note was that his office received about a dozen calls regarding cards that contained incorrect information about polling locations. The cards looked like official information from state government, but in reality, the misinformation was from an unknown third party entity.

Denny said he had heard reports that these types of cards were sent out across the country.

"There was a lot of misinformation from these entities," Denny said.

Other than a few minor problems with voting machines, Denny said the election went smoothly and that there were no reported cases of electioneering at the polls.

Locally, 1,248 Democrats cast straight party ticket votes compared to 810 Republicans and 46 Independents.

In the race for Secretary of State, Democrat Alison Lundergan Grimes easily carried Anderson County, outpacing Republican challenger Bill Johnson 67 to 33 percent.

Incumbent Attorney General Jack Conway also won easily, defeating Republican challenger Todd P'Poll 57 to 43 percent.

Anderson voters also heavily favored Democrat Adam Edelen for Auditor of Public Accounts, giving him an easy 62-38 percent win over Republican John Kemper III.

The election's tightest race locally was for State Treasurer, with Democrat Todd Hollenbach receiving 49.49 percent of the vote in his win over Republican K.C. Crosbie (44.57 percent) and Independent Kenneth Moellman Jr. (5.94 percent).

"I was a farmer, so I was used to hard work," he said.

Because he had a private's ranking, Perry said he didn't have any choice but to work, first at the farm, and then in Munich digging up railroad ties.

But it turned out to be a blessing, he said, as the time passed more quickly.

"What I was most proud of, I never had a sick day in 10 months," Perry said, his voice catching.

Once a week Perry received a 12-pound Red Cross parcel he shared with a buddy to supplement his diet of potatoes.

"That's what kept us going," he said.

What clothes Perry owned he wore. He lived in a boxcar for two to three weeks one time in Munich. He had no idea what was going on back home; mail from October came in March.

"German news, and they was always winning," he said. "We didn't get no real honest news."

Perry was liberated from the prison in 1945, and headed back to his native Anderson County to farm. He said it wasn't too difficult to adjust to civilian life, having been on a farm before he left, and returning to the farm when he got back.

He belongs to one of two remaining World War II POW groups in Kentucky, but their numbers are declining as its members age.

"Our club is almost ready to fade out, we've lost lots of members," Perry said. "We're just barely alive."

But he feels for those soldiers in Iraq and Afghanistan now, and appreciates all things people do for veterans.

"I always felt special overseas because I was from a free country," he said, "and that word 'free' is a big, big word."

Bob Mefford

There comes a time, Bob Mefford said, when you have to give most things up.

As a veteran, that doesn't mean he doesn't still feel the need to serve his country.

"Whenever there's a conflict going on, I feel like I need to be there," Mefford, a former councilmember, said. "You still get a feeling like you're responsible, one way or another."

Mefford, who served three separate tours of duty during the Korean War, has seen some things from the foxholes he'd rather forget.

But he just has to put them out of his mind.

"When you go by, you could see them," Mefford said, referring to soldiers lying on the ground, executed by North Korean soldiers. "Something you don't ever forget."

Mefford left his wife, Dolores, and family in Anderson County, and he said it was hardest being away from them, yet he couldn't always worry.

"When you're in combat, you don't have a lot of time to worry about home," he said. "You worry about whether you're going to survive or not."

Mefford's time in the military wasn't all darkness.

He still remembers a story of his friend falling down a 'honeywell,' a pit for human waste, while trying to catch a chicken.

Mefford went to Korea in 1950, 1952 and 1963.

He was almost sent to Vietnam in 1966, but two days before he was supposed to be shipped out, the unit was cancelled, and Mefford went to Germany instead.

Because his dad and brother had been in the service, Mefford said he signed up with the Army as well.

He never expected it to become his career.

"I figured the Army was the best place for me, and it was; it turned out to be my life," Mefford said.

Bobbie and Jacob Mayes

Veterans Day is like the Fourth of July.

Not that it's necessarily a time of celebration, but rather, a time of reflection about those who've served before.

"They were the giants; we can now stand on their shoulders," Major Bobbie Mayes said.

Bobbie and her husband Captain Jacob Mayes, entered the Army right after high school; Bobbie's brother, an Army veteran, had told her it'd be like band camp.

The "band camp" experience turned into a 20-year career for Bobbie, who said she originally joined the Army wanting to be a lawyer.

Instead of arguing cases in a courtroom last year, Bobbie taught Afghan women how to run their own businesses using crops, handicrafts and even bees.

"One of my teaching experiences was how to bee keep, how to do it properly," she said.

After 9/11, things changed, Bobbie said, how she regarded veterans, and how others treated her.

People came up to her and Jacob, shook their hands, paid them for their meals in restaurants, and thanked them for their service.

"I have teenagers do it," Bobbie said. "They come up and shake our hands and say thank you. It's a breath of fresh air."

And every Veterans Day, Bobbie and Jacob remember and honor other veterans in turn.

Typically, they run in races or marathons, but this year, the couple will be attending the Warriors Cup exhibition ice hockey game in Louisville on Saturday.

While Bobbie was away her sons, ages 5 and 7, started playing ice hockey, and husband Jacob joined them.

Now Jacob will be playing hockey with other veterans to raise money for the Wounded Warriors Project, with proceeds going to help injured soldiers who served in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Now that Bobbie is back in the States, Jacob will be deployed to Iraq for the second time in the coming year.

Jacob said his first deployment definitely changed his outlook on Veterans Day.

"For me, after going to Iraq, it's different for me now," he said. "Now our generation is a part of that brotherhood and sisterhood; it's more of a reflection."

Bobbie agreed.

"It's not just a day off anymore," she said.

self-imposed Nov. 15 deadline.

Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway, who has previously called for Hurley's dismissal, said he wasn't happy with the results of the closed session, but the board did what it had to do.

"He's got three months to turn it around; if he doesn't turn it around in three months, he's gone," Conway said. "We're going through the channels, we're going through the ways it should work."

According to Conway, Hurley must agree to the probationary improvement plan or risk termination.

He said the public will probably not be happy with the board's decision.

"No, I think the majority of the people in the county wanted to see him terminated," he said.

Dr. Don Wells, board member, said the details of the improvement plan were still to be determined by board members.

The plan, if agreed upon by Hurley, will include the board's expectations of what it wants Hurley to accomplish during his 90-day probation, such as addressing personnel and budgeting issues, or even implementing a new plan.

Wells also said the board will be looking more closely at the department's budgetary problems as well as developing Hurley's improvement plan.

"Nobody wants to see the board of health fail, but they also know, you've got to get a grasp on money," Wells said.

Bustin said he could not say if the entire board or a separate committee will be responsible for the improvement plan, and that there was no concrete plan in place.

"We have a vague plan, but it's not been solidified," he said.

Both Davis and Hurley declined to comment on the board of health's decision.

Tony Soprano would love a racket like this

Don't weep yet for demoted health director

Want the real news that surfaced from last Thursday night's health board meeting?

No, it isn't that the director got over and kept his job, albeit on a part-time basis.

Instead, it's that despite all the bluster the judge-executive who wanted him fired could muster, the board doesn't have the ability to fire the director.

Ben Carlson
General manager

Oh, it can vote to fire him but that becomes reality only if the decision isn't vetoed by the state health board, re: Dr. Steve Davis, its acting director.

I probably should have known that before this transpired; after all, it is in the state regulations on how local health boards are forced to operate. Nevertheless, it's just one more example of how state health officials have stacked the deck to ensure that, no matter what the people say or demand, nothing, including taxpayers, will stand in the way of their agendas or paychecks.

It's nothing short of a protection racket that would make Tony Soprano and his ilk smile.

It's frankly bad enough that health, library and fire boards have no public accountability. They can raise our taxes, sell property, buy property and build unnecessary buildings without so much as a public hearing. And to top it off, they never, ever have to stand election.

Can anyone else taste the bile?

But it gets even worse when state government honks who also have no direct public accountability can overrule a decision as basic as firing a director who clearly has lost the board's support.

On my life I cannot figure out why someone, anyone doesn't challenge this protection racket in court, and get the power to tax us — at the point of a gun, if necessary — placed back with the people we've elected to do so.

Speaking of a racket ...

Don't shed too many tears just yet for the newly demoted health director, whose hours have been reduced to 22.5 a week.

Oh, it won't be easy for him in the short term. From what we've been told, he'll have to work each of those hours in Anderson County instead of logging them from his home in Frankfort — or any of the far-flung locations across the country he visits regularly on the taxpayer's behalf.

And unless the state health racketeers have their own rules on benefits, too, he'll fall short of the 100 hours other state employees must work to receive them.

But I'll place the odds at no worse than 90-to-10 that the director won't get far into his 90-day probationary period before giving taxpayers here one last mental single-digit salute and leaving for a cushy state health job in Frankfort.

My sources (and wouldn't curious board member Joy Hoskins just love to know who they are, or at least if I'm related to a nurse there with the same last name!) tell me that the day after the director had his hours cut, a previously closed state health department position suddenly reopened.

Coincidence? Oh, probably, but one can't help but wonder about the job just happening to open up at such an opportune time.

Guess it pays to have friends in high places — or better yet in Frankfort.

Speaking of can't help ...

Reducing the director to part-time isn't going to put but a small dent in the health department's budget problem.

More solutions, including leasing out a portion of that building to offset the mortgage or even making the entire facility a Monday-Wednesday-Friday part-time operation, would go much further into make the department solvent.

Speaking of solutions ...

The fiscal court appears to be heading toward a good solution to solve its recycling issues.

The rub appears to be in whether city residents will have theirs picked up while county residents have to haul theirs to collections points.

I live in the city and have mine collected — when my wife remembers to haul that stupid blue bin to the curb on the right day each month. Still, I hate having that stupid overflowing bin gobbling up space in my garage that could be put to better use for my hunting and fishing gear.

I'd much rather drive my load of laundry soap bottles, etc. to a collection point and get rid of it whenever the mood strikes.

Will hemp be the new ethanol?

Ingenuity is important in today's economy, especially in agriculture.

But harvesting hemp?

That's a new one.

Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

In 2011, I would have thought we'd replace cotton and polyester with more futuristic materials.

Like recycled seat covers from our flying hover cars.

Rather, we're looking back to renew modern agriculture, with a species of plant that doesn't come without high expectations and mixed connotations.

I've lived in some pretty agrarian states, so with time, I've become somewhat familiar with the farmer lingo about corn, winter wheat and soybeans during C.A.V.E. (Citizens Against Virtually Everything) meetings at the local gas station.

I'm not sure how a hemp harvest is going to figure into that conversation.

Most of time, you hear people debating medical marijuana and its potential affect on industry, as well as the drug cartel.

Hemp seems to be its drab, less sensational cousin that no one talks about.

But hemp production is no longer taking a backseat when it comes to the discussion.

It was even brought up during this year's gubernatorial race between Beshear and Williams, both candidates disagreeing with independent representative Galbraith in terms of lifting hemp restrictions for the state.

But the thing is, hemp isn't exactly a new idea.

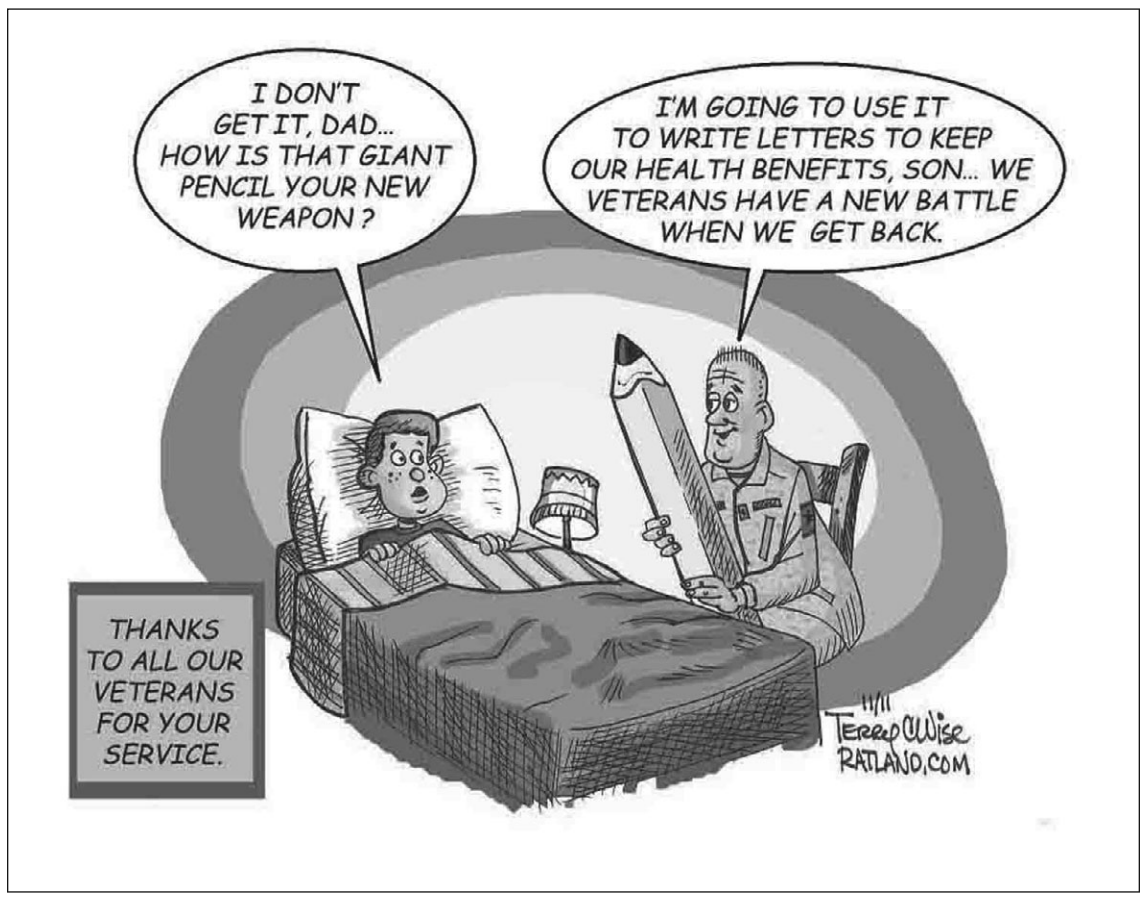

Hemp was an extremely popular crop prior to its federal ban in 1937, especially in Kentucky.

Between 1840-1860 and in World War II, hemp production flourished in Kentucky due to a strong demand for sailcloth and cordage made from hemp fibers for military use.

Not only can hemp be used for clothing, but for biofuel as well.

Now, I don't know the entire science behind stripping hemp stalks into diesel fuel,

Multi-tasking isn't just for office anymore

This is the time of year that I really start cooking, literally. My kitchen counter is finally clear of various vegetables and seeds, making room for dough and pastry.

Cheryl Steenerson
Columnist

Cooler temperatures make me hungry and when I'm hungry I cook. Plus, the oven heat is much more enjoyable this time of year.

I like to make my own bread, pie crust and noodles this time of year. At this very moment, all I can think about is warm bread coming out of the oven, only to be covered in real butter and homemade jam, just before I gobble down half a loaf. While it's baking, I usually have a pot of vegetable soup on the stove and together they make a right tasty meal. Are you drooling yet?

Yes, I am tempting you with healthy food. Which would you rather smell, a bag coming in from a fast food place or soup and bread? The soup and bread will fill you up and help you stay healthy.

Did you know that vitamin C helps to relieve allergies by unblocking sinuses? Did you know broccoli, cauliflower and cabbage is packed full of the stuff? Add some kale or collard greens and you've got vitamin A to help as well.

I don't boil much, but greens definitely go into the pot for at least 20 minutes. They say boiling leaches out all the vitamins and nutrients but that's not quite true. You still get a lot from the food and you can save the water for soups and stews.

It may sound silly to freeze water, but it's not just water, some call it pot likker, and it usually has a lovely color. The vitamins and nutrients are still in the water and add a healthy punch to any dish you dream up. Add some garlic and onions into the mix and get relief from stuffy noses, as well as the nutrients.

Carrots, celery, winter squash and pumpkin are also great winter foods for health. They pack a ton of vitamin A to your dishes, which also helps to fight allergies. If all this sounds like work, let me help.

Between putting the farm to bed, cutting wood and my other "regular" jobs, I don't have a lot of time. Organization and efficiency are my watch words. I plan ahead to cook on a rain day, then, I make my list of meals to cook and gather all the ingredients.

I cook enough for an army and then fill the freezer with lots of small containers, marked with a name and date. When the next yucky day rolls around, I can choose to spend it on the couch with a good book, while a container thaws. Healthy food and no work.

I try to keep rosemary and thyme growing inside, throughout the winter, just for teas and cooking. I love the smell of rosemary and usually add two long, leafy stems to a pot of black beans, in addition to some onion and garlic. Put it on rice and add a few tablespoons of hot salsa and I'm in heaven. The only other side dish is my cast iron skillet of cornbread.

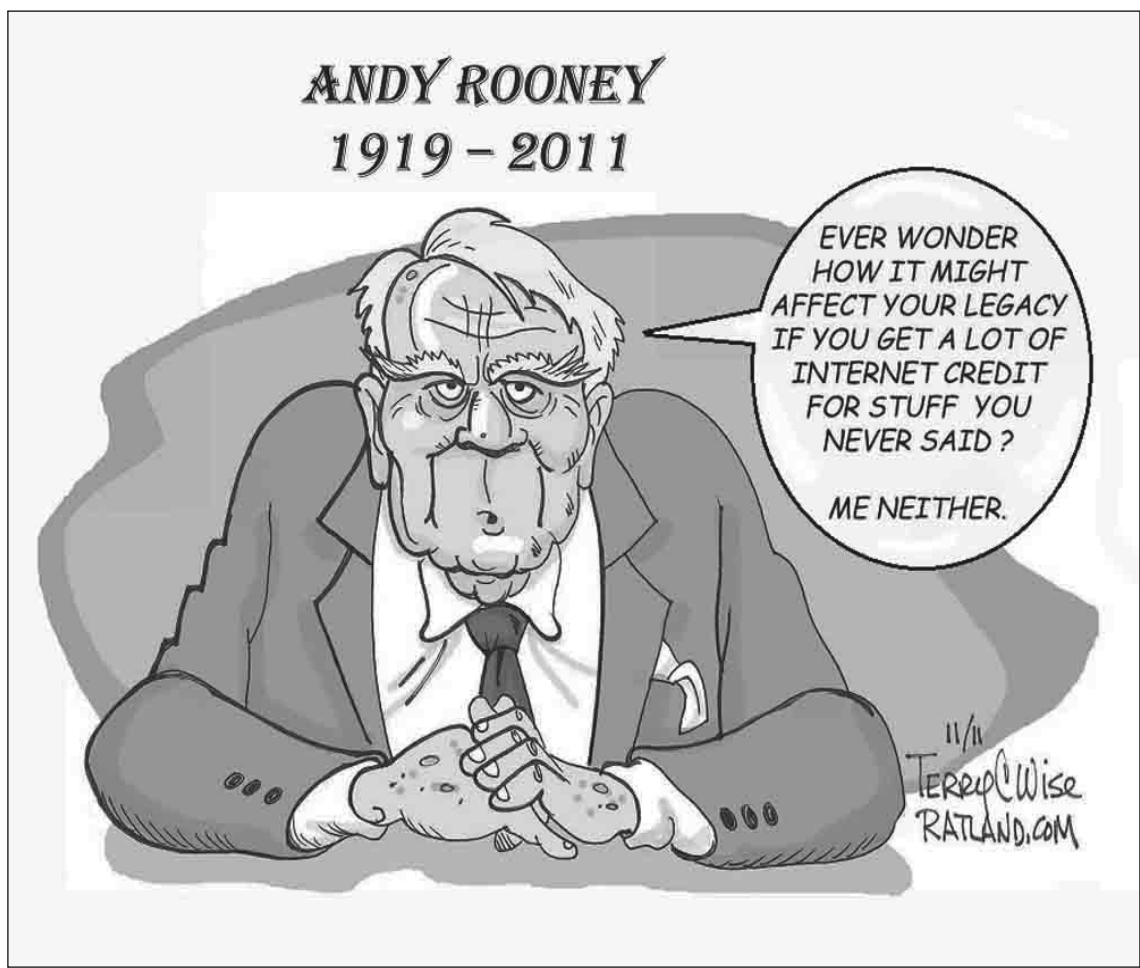

Thyme makes a great tea that really helps if you feel a cold coming on. So does ginger root.

I keep ginger root wrapped in foil, in my freezer at all times. When you feel sick, this is the ultimate fighter, to boost your immune system. Grate it and make a lovely tea.

Now, all this talk of food has made me ravenous. Time to multitask. I'm going to eat with my left hand while my right makes the shopping list. It's fall and this is Kentucky.

A rain day is surely on it's way and I plan on being prepared. Happy growing.

Curbside pickup of recycling could end

Debate over stopping service countywide or outside city

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

Getting recycled materials picked up by the county might soon be a thing of the past.

The question now is will rural residents be the only ones shut out of having that service provided, or will it also include those who live in the city.

Conway

Ruggles

The Anderson County Fiscal Court last Tuesday voted unanimously to begin what will be an overhaul of its recycling program by selecting a recommendation from its recently formed environmental committee.

That recommendation calls for ending the county's practice of picking up recycled materials and strategically placing recycling containers at stores such as Kroger, Walmart and at public schools.

Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway said none of what magistrates approved is close to being written in stone.

"This is going to be tweaked," Conway said, adding that he isn't in favor of stopping pickup outside of the city while continuing to provide it in the city.

"We need to do this fairly."

Magistrate David Ruggles, who serves on the county's solid waste and environmental committees, said continuing to pick up recyclables in the city makes sense, because it is much more cost effective than driving what in some cases is miles between stops in rural areas.

"We're losing money in the rural areas," he said.

He said providing containers at high-traffic areas would still give rural residents the opportunity to recycle.

"Everyone comes to Kroger or Walmart to shop for groceries at some point during the week," Ruggles said.

Currently, the county manages a recycling program that allows city and rural residents to have items picked up at no charge on a monthly basis. Only about 900 of the 9,300 households in Anderson County participate, Ruggles said.

Any changes aren't likely to take place until at least next summer because the county must first put together grant requests to help offset costs.

Along with recycling bins, the county would also need a pickup truck capable of pulling them, along with a skid-steer loader and other equipment.

Conway said the changes don't necessarily hinge on getting grants, but he doesn't see the county purchasing high-ticket items such as skid-steer without grant funds.

Magistrates were poised to vote on the issue last Tuesday until Ruggles pointed out some of its flaws. He said the idea of placing as many as nine recycling bins, which have wheels and can be pulled with a truck, around the county would prove ineffective because of the way they would have to be hauled.

He said there would be no way to unload material from the bins and place it in the county's large recycling truck other than by hand. That, he said, would force the county to continuously haul the bins to the recycling center in Lexington.

County Clerk Jason Denny joined the conversation and said those trailers could be modified, and that the county could build a ramp from which they could be unloaded into the main recycling truck.

That idea was discussed, and later approved.

Another grant request is likely to be submitted for a cardboard bailer, which would have to be covered. Conway said the idea would be to build a lean-to for the bailer, if the court approves.

Ruggles said when it comes to recycling, cardboard is very profitable and recommended making sure it is separated from the rest of the items dropped off or picked up.

David Steedly, a resident who is serving as chairman of the environmental committee, said he's encouraged that the fiscal court is moving the issue of recycling forward.

He said if the fiscal court eventually moves away from curbside pickup, it could focus more of its efforts toward the long-term goal of creating a recycling center.

"That would give us more flexibility," Steedly said.

Committee member Tom Heil told the court it stands a good chance of getting grants because the need is certainly here and that the county has not previously requested any recycling grants.

FISCAL COURT NOTEBOOK

Building inspections, permits down

Inspections of single-family homes is down 50 percent through October compared to the same period last year, according to information released by code enforcement office Doug Ingram during last Tuesday's fiscal court meeting.

Only 16 single-family homes have been inspected this year, compared to 32 last year.

Ingram reported that permits are down slightly, from 79 to 77, and that the estimated cost of new construction is down about $1.5 million for the year, dropped from $7.1 million to $5.6 million.

Ingram reported issuing two stop work orders on Jenny Lillard Road, one for a new pre-built structure without a permit and another for an addition to a home without a permit.

Four cases Ingram has investigated are still in the court system, including 1560 Crooked Creek Road (numerous unlicensed vehicles); 1140 Hammond Road (abandoned dilapidated structures); 1993 Fox Creek Road (fire damaged structure); and 1791 Fox Creek Road (unlicensed vehicles).

Two properties are under notice, including one in the Running Brook subdivision that contains and open basement holding water, and a complaint about junk vehicles on Wildcat Road.

Ingram said the Running Brook property's owner has acquired electric to keep a sump pump operational.

Zoning change

The fiscal court held a first reading of a recommendation from the planning and zoning commission to alter the definition of A1 zoning to allow homes built on 1-acre sites if public sewers are available.

Previously, homes in areas zoned A1 had to be built only on 2-acre sites.

The fiscal court is expected to hold a second reading of the change when it meets Nov. 15 at 7 p.m. That reading will also include a public hearing, during which comments will be accepted from the public.

The meeting will be held in the fiscal court annex, located on Main Street.

Boy Scout to help playground

Boy Scout Forrest Bowman attended last Tuesday's fiscal court meeting, looking for guidance in how best to raise funds to place rubber mulching around the Cole Playground in the county park.

Bowman is working on the project as part of his efforts to become an Eagle Scout.

Magistrates encouraged him to raise the funding and wished him well.

but apparently, it can be done.

The question is, should it?

The United States has a zero tolerance policy when it comes to marijuana.

Although hemp has a much lower percentage of THC — the intoxicating chemical found in marijuana — it's still considered a controlled substance under federal law, and banned from U.S cultivation or production.

Law enforcement representatives state it'd be difficult to determine what was illegal and what wasn't, considering hemp and marijuana aren't exactly apples to oranges in terms of looks.

Yet the United States is one of the few countries in the world not to utilize hemp as an industry.

China is the leading producer and exporter of hemp, and other European countries and our neighbor to the north, Canada, permit some kind of hemp production.

I'm not an advocate for or against growing hemp, but it's curious to me that certain individuals, politicians and farmers alike, are choosing to have the conversation now.

As our country struggles to find a foothold against unemployment and a poor economy, perhaps we're looking for anything resembling innovation to get back on top.

Even if it means taking hemp and making it new again.

'NEW YORK SAYS THANK YOU' FOUNDATION VISITS HIGH SCHOOL

Jeff Parness, founder of the 'New York says Thank You Foundation,' shakes hands with City of Lawrenceburg fire chief Robert Hume last week at the high school auditorium. Students, staff and local fire fighters and emergency management personnel from Lawrenceburg and Frankfort viewed a documentary film featuring Parness and his organization, which seeks to rebuild in cities across the United States to 'pay it forward' from when Americans assisted New York City residents after 9/11. The film debuted at the 2011 Tribeca film festival in New York City.

Better results expected in audit of schools

Mitchell says spending cuts, pay freezes, layoffs should lead to improved results

By Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

After last November's district audit Superintendent Sheila Mitchell faced $1.1 million in excess spending by Anderson County Schools, leading to a pay increase freeze for staff and 13 terminated teaching positions.

This year, however, Mitchell said she believes Anderson County Schools have met their goal of cutting 5 percent from every department across the budget.

"We've worked very hard on it," Mitchell said regarding the 2010-11 school district's budget. "Our goal is to set a budget and stick to it."

The Anderson County Board of Education will learn the final result of its fiscal performance over the last year at the Nov. 21 board meeting.

Mitchell said she has a general idea of how the district handled its budget, and according to what little of the audit she's seen so far from auditor Denise Keen, it looks good.

"We had a good audit this year, it looks like," Mitchell said, adding that district revenues were higher than expenses.

A budget committee, whose members included administrators and teachers, enacted several steps to cut expenses: freezing salary step increases, cutting operational costs by 5 percent, not purchasing school buses, changing a dental benefits plan and reducing extended days for staff.

This past May, Mitchell cut 13 teaching positions after learning the district was overstaffed, and that there were no federal and state funds left to pay for those positions.

"Every single one of those teachers were used, every one of those people bring value to the team," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said for the 2010-11 school year she followed the state recommended staffing allocation numbers, and because student enrollment was down again, some schools lost more staff than others.

Although the audit may prove to be positive for the district, Mitchell will still be faced with cuts from the state and federal level for the next fiscal year.

State funding is set to decrease again this year, she said, and the school district will be looking at a shortfall of $28 million in state funding for 2011-12.

In addition, Mitchell said $350,000 in Edujobs funding, money that was used toward paying five to six staff positions over the past two years, will also be gone at the end of the year.

"Looking at our audit this year, that's going to be in the back of my mind," Mitchell said.

Any future staff cuts, Mitchell said, would depend on the status of several factors — SEEK funds, possible staff salary step increases, mid-year reductions and contingency funds.

She said she hopes the board will not have to freeze salary step increases, but an increase district-wide would cost $300,000 to $350,000.

"I, along with the board, hope we do not have to do another salary freeze," she said.

Mitchell said the complete audit for this fiscal year will be presented to the Board of Education on Nov. 21.

PRINT MAKING AT SAFFELL STREET ELEMENTARY

Fourth grader Kaylee Scales-Conklin completes a block printing book in Elaine Clark's art class at Saffell Street Elementary. Relief printmaking is a process requiring students to carve a block, ink it with a brayer, apply the paper, use a barren to set the image on the paper. Students have learned that the printmaking process enables them to make several copies of the same image. The picture shows Kaylee, using the brayer to ink her block, then she's using the barren to set the image, finally she pulls the image.

We'll Never Say Goodbye

We cannot see you with our eyes
Or hear you with our ears.
But thoughts of you are with us still
And often dry our tears.
You whisper in the rustling leaves
That linger in the fall;
And the gentle evening breeze,
We're sure we hear your call.
A part of you remains with us
That none can take away.
It gives us strength to carry on
At dawning of a new day.
We think of happy times we shared
And then we often sigh.
But this we know – we'll meet again
And never say goodbye.

Happy Birthday
We love and miss you
Love, Jolly, Becky, Mike, Billy, Taylor and Tori

Grant helps GED grads move toward college

From staff reports

A state grant will assist GED graduates transition into college, the Anderson County Adult Education Center announced.

Over the next 12 months, students who earn GED diplomas can apply for financial aid through FAFSA, complete college applications and research their college and career preferences on-line at the center, utilizing a special software program.

The program is designed to help graduates transition from the center to postsecondary programs in the state.

The transition program is also designed to help students enroll directly into classes that earn credits toward a college degree program. Many students enrolling in college today do not score high enough on college entrance exams to enroll in courses that earn credits toward graduation. They must take developmental courses in math and or composition writing first, according to the news release.

These courses cost students additional tuition fees and slow down their progress.

Call 839-3754 or visit the center at 219 East Woodford Street, Lawrenceburg, for more information. Hours are 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

God will forgive even a sinner like me

Jess Thompson
Guest columnist

I am a sinner.

I often worry that my own sin is too great for me, and that God surely cannot forgive all of my wrongdoings.

Thankfully, I know that he can and will forgive you and me if we humble ourselves before him.

I enjoy reading the Old Testament books of Kings and Chronicles because I often can see glimpses of who God is.

These four books tell much of the rise and fall of kings of Israel and Judah. One such king was Manasseh, who learned a great lesson regarding God's great power and his willingness to forgive.

2 Chronicles 33:9, "But Manasseh led Judah and the people of Jerusalem astray, so that they did more evil than the nations the Lord had destroyed before the Israelites."

This chapter also points out that he built alters to false gods, consulted with mediums, defiled the Lord's temple and finally even sacrificed his own children.

Wow, I guess I cannot fathom much worse of a man. Due to his evil, Manasseh was captured by his enemies and a hook placed in his nose.

Justice was served for the evil king's wrongs, right?

2 Chronicles 33: 12-13, "12 in his distress sought the favor of the Lord his God and humbled himself greatly before the God of his ancestors." 13: "And when he prayed to him, the Lord was moved by his entreaty and listened to his plea; so he brought him back to Jerusalem and to his kingdom.

"Then Manasseh knew that the Lord is God."

This brings great hope to me when I think of how I have sinned against God personally. What an amazing creator and loving father to forgive even the worst of sinners like me and king Manasseh if we only humble ourselves before him.

"Set your house in order, for you shall die, and not live" (2 Kings 20:1). "What have they seen in your house?" (2 Kings 20:15). These two passages deal with Hezekiah showing the people from Babylon all of the treasure in his house. God was not pleased with what Hezekiah had done and was going to take his life, but God repented and gave Hezekiah 15 more years.

When considering these two verses as they relate to our life we might start with the second passage (2 Kings 20:15). Just what would people find in our homes if they came to visit? Would they find a family that was totally given to serving God? If they were able to check out our Bible would they see them worn from use? If they could review our Television watching would they find only decent programs being watched? If they reviewed our computers just what pages would be visible? What about our music and text messages?

The first passage says to Hezekiah, "Set your house in order." All of us know that man dies once (Heb. 9:27), but are we prepared for that death? Preparing for physical death man will see that his family, financial business and even social affairs are in order; but, what about spiritually? Have you taken care of your soul? Are you ready to meet Christ at Judgment? Many will wake up on the other side of death, too late, and find that they never took care of the most important thing, and that is their own soul. IS OUR HOUSE IN ORDER?

Trial requested for child porn suspect

By Ben Carlson
General Manager

The Commonwealth's Attorney's office has requested a trial date for a Lawrenceburg man facing more than 100 child pornography charges here and in Shelby County.

Mark Hawks, 55, of 402 Secretariat Drive, Lawrenceburg appeared Monday in Shelby County Circuit Court for a pretrial conference on charges in both counties.

Commonwealth's Attorney Laura Donnell requested a trial date, and Hawks is scheduled to appear again in Shelby Circuit Court on Monday, Dec. 5 at 9 a.m.

Donnell said after Monday's hearing that the Anderson County charges would likely be tried first, and that charges in both counties are being handled in Shelby County for efficiency.

Donnell said the charges in Anderson County relate to Hawks allegedly possessing and distributing child pornography from his address here. She said the Shelby County charges are related to him distributing similar images at his place of employment.

Hawks

Hawks was indicted in July on 10 counts of first-degree distribution of matter portraying a sexual performance by a minor, and 60 counts of possessing matter portraying a sexual performance by a minor, according to documents on file and the Anderson County Circuit Court.

All 70 indictments are Class D felonies.

He is facing 40 counts of distributing child pornography in Shelby County. The charges stem from a Kentucky State Police investigation that began outside Hawks' home in March.

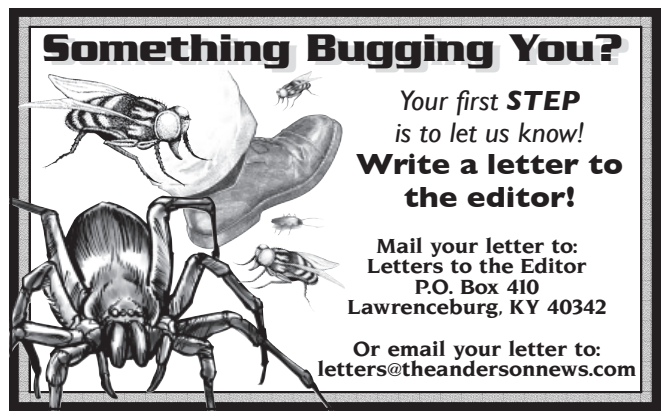

In his affidavit for a search warrant, Det. Bill Collins said he used the state police Child Protection System to observe files being downloaded to Hawks' Internet provider address on March 5. He said the files included names consistent with child exploitation files. From there his investigation revealed that Hawks was downloading child pornography.

Collins wrote that he was also able to obtain Hawks' Time Warner/Road Runner subscriber information from the company's headquarters in Herndon, Va., establishing that Hawks was receiving and transmitting files that contained child pornography.

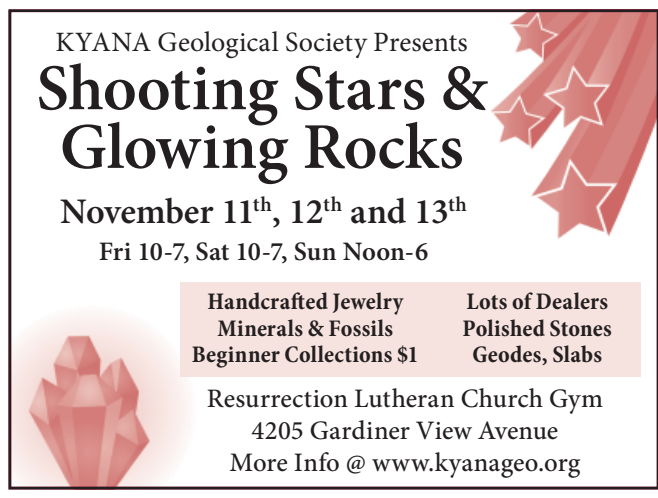

Hawks was arrested at his home in April, and his laptop, Blackberry phone and a thumb drive were confiscated.

In his report, Collins said that after his arrest, Hawks admitted possessing and distributing child pornography, and that he has "sexual desires toward children," according to documents on file in Anderson Circuit Court.

Nothing like Friday nights in November

Anderson asks own crowd to tone it down against Dragons

Playoff fever notes...

There is nothing better than a chilly November Friday night at a high school football stadium. By that time, every time two teams kick it off, only one of them is going to have another game to look forward to about 150 minutes later.

John Herndon
Sports editor

Crowds usually aren't overflow until the middle of the month, but they always sense just how much different November football games are for high school kids who will usually be doing all they can to keep their year alive.

That was the case Friday night. The crowd at Warford Stadium when South Oldham came to town was not the biggest ever at Anderson. It wasn't even close to the largest of the year.

But it might have been the most active at making Friday Night Lights in Lawrenceburg special.

"We had a great crowd out here tonight," Anderson coach Mark Peach said with a bit of a chuckle. "They were loud! There were some times when our kids asked them to be quiet because we had the ball and they were making so much noise.

"That crowd was just great tonight."

And crowds like that make playoff football a happening that few other get togethers can match.

Sometimes it is easy to forget we are talking about kids playing a game.

And it is easy to forget the kids wearing a white jersey at Anderson are essentially the same as the kids who suit up for Anderson County. They have girlfriend problems, might struggle in math and, more often than not, will not play sports after the final horn of their high school careers.

I was reminded of that Friday night in a way that I was not expecting.

My Landmark colleagues at The Oldham Era contacted me during the week to see if I could share some of my coverage of the Anderson-South Oldham game as all three Oldahm County high schools were in the playoffs at the same time.

Knowing what those kind of conflicts are like, I was glad to help, but while I was talking with South Oldham coach Jamie Reed, I was struck by a white-shirted South Oldham player who walked by.

Tears were streaming down his face.

His team had given everything it had, then reached down and tried to give some more, but still it was not enough as Anderson pulled it out in the final five minutes.

South Oldham was somewhat upset with some of the calls and non-calls, which is to be expected in a playoff setting, especially when one team wins by one score, as was the case Friday night.

We will admit seeing things in agreement with the Anderson point of view, but from this corner, it was a stretch to see things as being one-sided.

To his credit, Reed never showed any sideline histrionics that seem to accompany disagreements these days, but commenting about the officials afterward, it was obvious that Reed was disappointed.

South's fans seemed most upset by a non-call when Anderson's Travis Phillips battled South Oldham's Steward Williams for the ball on what

Dillow earns fourth state bid

Cross country star focusing on high finish at this week's race

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

VERSAILLES – Austin Dillow might be more sure of where he will be on the second Saturday in November than the fourth Thursday.

The Anderson County senior turned in a 17:59.31, good enough for 16th place in the Class 3A, Region 6 meet held Saturday at a muddy Woodford County Park. More importantly, Dillow was third among individuals not on the four qualifying teams, earning his fourth consecutive bid to the state cross country meet, to be held on Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Kentucky Horse Park.

"The hard work paid off," said Dillow, who said he routinely runs 60 miles a week during the off-season.

Lafayette, Tates Creek, Paul L. Dunbar and Henry Clay qualified as teams for the state. Anderson finished seventh as a team with 167 points.

Anderson County's Austin Dillow works among the race leaders at the first mile mark in Saturday's regional cross country meet at Woodford County Park. Dillow qualified for the state cross country meet for the fourth consecutive year.

Henry Clay's Andrew Kirk won the individual title with a 17:00.70.

Kevin Ross of Bryan Station and Woodford County's Ben Rathbone finished ahead of Dillow as individual qualifiers. The top five individual qualifiers advance.

Junior Dylan Buser just missed his third state bid, finishing 26th, but was only good enough for sixth in the race for individual qualifiers.

Anderson coach Scott Ellis said his team suffered a major blow to its chances of qualifying as a team when senior Kiefer Williams went down with mononucleosis late in the season. But on the day when the Bearcats were called upon for their best efforts, Ellis was pleased. "We have shown a lot of improvement since the beginning of the season," he said.

Dillow was positioned well throughout the race, running in 10th

Bearcats hold off S. Oldham, advance

Bearcats get job done after blowing big lead

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

There would be no deja vu all over again for Anderson County Friday night

The Bearcats broke a 26-all tie with 4:50 to play, then held on to defeat visiting South Oldham, 33-26 in the first round of the state Class 5A football playoffs Friday night.

Ethan Kelly burst through a gaping hole in the right side of the South Oldham defense for a 4-yard touchdown. Bill Rose's extra point finished the scoring.

Anderson, now 9-2 on the year, moves on to host district foe Montgomery County, an upset winner over Cooper, in the regional semifinals.

The Bearcats had blown a 26-7 lead in a matter of seven minutes, a scenario eerily reminiscent of their 38-37 win at South Oldham in 2010. In that one, Anderson overcame a 27-point deficit in a matter of about seven minutes.

It just would not happen for South Oldham Friday. The Dragons ended their season at 6-5.

"I was so proud of how the guys responded tonight," Anderson coach Mark Peach said. "You have to give South Oldham a lot of credit. They came in here and did not quit. But I told the kids, 'In life, it's not always perfect. There are days when you don't feel good. There are times when everything is going against you, but you have got to go from there and get the job done.'"

On the web
See more photos of the Bearcats' win over South Oldham at www.theandersonnews.com.

South Oldham moved to the Anderson 34, but an ineligible receiver and an illegal procedure gave the Dragons third-and-17 at the Anderson 44. Sherry was unable to connect with Jacob Lamb on third down, then on fourth down Anderson's Travis Phillips broke up a pass intended for Steward Williams.

Rose juggles two sports with success

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Over his high school athletic career, Bill Rose has quietly (maybe literally) become one of the mainstays of the sport he took up at age 3 and a vital part of another he took up just two years ago.

Rose has been a defender in soccer and has the Anderson County High School record for most extra points in one season.

He is also among the top 15 in state history in consecutive extra points made.

Rose talked with The Anderson News about his high school athletic career last week.

Question: You have played both football and soccer. Do you have any other sports that you have played?

Rose: No sir, I have played just football and soccer.

Question: When did you start playing football? Had you played the sport in the past?

Rose: My sophomore year I came out. I had played rec football in the

UK single-game tickets on sale now

From staff reports

Single-game tickets for Kentucky women's basketball's 18 home games, including eight against Southeastern Conference opponents and back-to-back "Pack the House" games vs. Louisville and Duke, are on sale now, according to a news release from the school.

Single-game reserved tickets are available at a cost of $7 for all ages.

General admission tickets for adults are also $7, and single-game general admission tickets for seniors and children (18 and under, 65 and over) are $4. Age 5 and under are admitted free.

Those interested in UK Hoops tickets can visit the Joe Craft Center ticket office, go to UKathletics.com, or call the UK ticket office at 1-800-928-CATS.

The Wildcats' season opener is Friday, Nov. 11 at Morehead State at 7 p.m., and the home opener is Tuesday, Nov. 15 vs. Jacksonville State at 11 a.m.

The Cats will play host to intrastate rival Louisville on Sunday, Dec. 4 in Memorial Coliseum for their annual "Pack the House" game. Four days later (Thursday, Dec. 8), UK will take on Duke for the first time in Lexington.

The Cats look to "Pack the House" in Rupp Arena that afternoon and avenge a six-point loss to the Blue Devils last season in Cameron Indoor Stadium, according to a news release.

It will mark the lone game of the season in Rupp Arena for the UK Hoops team.

Group ticket pricing is available for all games, including the Duke game. For more information on group tickets call 859-257-8022.

Season tickets for the entire 18-game home schedule are also still available for $45, except lower-level chair back seating, which are $60 and sold out.

STATE PLAYOFF PREVIEW

Montgomery a surprise opponent for Bearcats in regional semi

Resurgent Indians have won three of last four games

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

The name will be the same, but the game will be different.

At least that is how Anderson County football coach Mark Peach sees things heading into Friday's Class AAA, Region 3 semifinal with Montgomery County. The Bearcats will host the Indians, a team they defeated back on Sept. 23 after beating South Oldham, as expected, and Montgomery, a No. 4 seed, upset No. 1 seeded Cooper, which few expected, last week.

Anderson, which enters the contest at 9-2, defeated Montgomery, 31-14, in a district game back on Sept. 23 at Warford Stadium.

In that one, the Bearcats gave up an early touchdown pass from Matt Tuttle to Daryl McCane, but quickly seized control and were never in trouble. The highlight of that contest might have been running back Granville Hayes throwing the first pass of his varsity career, a 48-yard touchdown to Ross Cox that put Anderson up 21-7 inside the first minute of the second half.

Peach, however, says Montgomery is a different team than the one that fell to 2-3 that night. "The first time we played them, Montgomery ran first and set up the pass. Now they pass first and then that sets up the run," he said.

The statistics bear Peach out. In the final regular season statistics released by the Kentucky High School Athletic Association last week, Tuttle was ranked as the sixth leading passer in Class 5A with 150 yards per game. Anderson's Seth Carmichael leads 5A at 233 yards a game. McCane, with 70 yards a contest, is Class 5A's sixth-leading receiver, one spot behind Anderson's Ethan Kelly with 81.

McCane caught scoring passes of 63 and 70 yards against Cooper, while Lance Lockridge went the distance from 57 yards. Tuttle connected on 13-of-19 passes for 293 yards against Cooper.

Montgomery also got 94 yards rushing from 240-pound fullback Uvea Moala and 89 from Blake Preston.

According to a report on the Cincinnati Enquirer website, Cooper had three touchdowns called back in that one.

But things changed for Montgomery after a 44-35 loss at East Jessamine. While many point to that game being the one that changed East Jessamine because of injuries suffered, Montgomery has gone 3-1 since then. The only loss was to Franklin County, 41-14, but Franklin scored twice in the last 6:17 to make the final score more one-sided than things really were.

The following week, Montgomery became one of only two teams to beat perennial power Rockcastle County this year. "They beat Rockcastle and Cooper, who are both outstanding football teams," Peach said. "Tuttle is playing very well right now."

Peach remembers the first meeting well. "It was a hard-hitting game. We were able to execute in all phases of that game. We will need to do that again," he says.

And, Peach says, beating a good team twice in the same season is extremely difficult. "On the one hand, you have an idea what your opponent may do, the on the other side, they know you as well. It is very hard to beat a good football team twice."

Game notes

Anderson will be going for 10 wins for the first time since 2007. The only other times Anderson County has won 10 football games came in 1986 and 1987 when Peach was a tackle for Coach Sam Harp.

Until Montgomery defeated Cooper, the home team had won every one of Montgomery's games this year.

This will be the second year in a row that Anderson has played a team for the second time in a season in the regional semi-finals. A year ago, Anderson beat non-district foe Bullitt Central, a team it had slipped by 28-27 in the regular season, 42-7 in the playoffs.

It will be the fourth time in the last five seasons Anderson has had to come back against a regular season opponent in the post season. In 2007, Anderson swept South Oldham and split with Oldham County, the team that ended Anderson's unbeaten season in the playoffs.

The only other times Anderson has met a team twice in the same season came in 1987 and 1991 when the Bearcats were swept by Danville both times.

No matter what happens, the winner of Friday's game will go on the road for the regional final. The winner of the Franklin County-Conner game, being played at Franklin, will host the final.

FOOTBALL

Oldham faithful pleaded for a pass interference call on Phillps, but to no avail.

"We both slipped and I went for the ball and was able to get my hand on it," Phillips said.

The Bearcats were able to run out the clock and advance despite being outgained in total offensive yards, 371-332.

South Oldham coach Jamie Reed was obviously perturbed by several calls during the night. "We played our fannies off," he said. "It is going to go down as one of those games where you wonder if some of the calls were right or wrong."

However, Reed later noted that he had told his team, "When you play a good team away at their stadium, you have to find a way to overcome the officiating. You have to play at a level that that stuff doesn't matter."

South Oldham was called for seven penalties for 53 yards, while Anderson was flagged six times for 48.

The Bearcats had built a 26-7 lead with 4:35 to play in the third quarter. Anderson seemed to have the Dragons on the ropes after Seth Carmichael and Spencer Ruggles hooked up for their second scoring pass of the night.

But South Oldham's Marc Stephens returned the ensuing kickoff 70 yards to the Anderson 5. Two plays later, Dragon quarterback Jack Sherry bulled his way to the end zone from four yards out. The Bearcats, however, stopped a two-point conversion attempt.

"The kickoff return totally changed the game," Peach said. "I thought when we had them down 26-7, they were starting to get down on themselves a little bit. We were about to put them away. But you have got to hand it to Stephens on that return. He got his hand on the ball and made a great play.

"Once they punched it in, it was a different game."

Reed added, "I told the kids we have to work together as a team,"

Anderson still had a chance to put it away but after taking a pass from Carmichael, Phillips fumbled on the South Oldham two. The Dragons turned that miscue into another touchdown as Sherry scored again from a yard out, but the Dragons missed the extra point.

Dallas Banks turned in the big play, a 78-yard run to the Anderson 13.

South tied things when Stephens broke several tackles at the line of scrimmage, then motored 67 yards for a score and Sherry kicked the extra point with 9:22 to play.

"I thought we should have been up more," Carmichael said of Anderson's 26-7 cushion.

Anderson had taken a 9-0 lead early in the second quarter when Carmichael and Ruggles connected from 19 yards, then got a safety when a snap sailed over Sherry in punt formation. Sherry kicked the ball through the end zone to prevent an Anderson touchdown.

South, however, responded with a 68-yard pass from Sherry to Williams to make it 9-7 before Carmichael found Kelly for a 39-yard scoring strike 12 seconds before halftime.

Carmichael hit on 9-of-13 passes for 124 yards, but also came up with some major runs, totaling 71 yards. Kelly went over the 100-yard mark, carrying the ball 17 times for 103 yards.

Stephens led South Oldham with 109 yards on 12 touches.

But Anderson felt it should have had a bigger lead as an illegal procedure penalty forced the Bearcats to settle for a 22-yard field goal from Rose on the opening drive of the second half.

Carmichael added, "We helped them with a lot of missed tackles."

Still Anderson advanced in the state playoffs for the fourth time in five years. "Anytime you win in the playoffs, you have to be happy," Peach said. "It wasn't pretty. We made it hard on ourselves but we still found a way to put it away."

place at the first mile mark. However, when the runners made the turn for home with about 250 yards to go, Dillow had dropped back to 16th place.

He could not make up any ground on those in front of him, but was not threatened from behind.

Buser passed Henry Clay's Chris Gross in the final 50 yards, but it was not enough to bump into the state field.

It is believed that Dillow is the first Anderson runner since Devin Davenport to advance to the state all four years of high school. Dillow is the first to make it all four seasons as a Class 3A runner.

Dillow is often seen pounding the pavement around Lawrenceburg in the off-season. He hopes to finish better than his No. 79 placing at last year's state meet. Dillow turned in a 17:54.63 over the hilly course at the Horse Park. The crowded field included 228 runners from around the state last year.

"I hope to get in the top 50 and get around 17 (minutes) flat," said Dillow, who appeared confident as meet officials tabulated finishes. Runners and fans waited about 45 minutes after the conclusion of the day's races for results to be announced.

"A lot will depend on who is there," Ellis said.

"He will need to stay focused this week. It is attainable."

turned out to be South Oldham's final play, a fourth-and-17 situaton from the Anderson 44 with less than two minutes to play.

From this corner, it did appear there was some bumping, but whether it created an unfair advantage would be open to the tint of one's glasses.

As is the case with most games, there were other calls missed or simply not called both ways. As Reed said, teams have to play at a level that those things don't matter.

It is easy to think of Anderson County's Ethan Kelly as a great running back or receiver. One would be justified in thinking that way. All Kelly has done is put up back-to-back 1,000-yard rushing seasons and has shattered the school scoring record in just two years of varsity football.

But Friday, Peach was extolling Kelly's defense on South Oldham receiver Jacob Lamb, one of the state's best. Lamb had just three catches for 32 yards Friday night. "Ethan did a great job on Lamb. ... To hold Lamb to that is a tremendous effort. Outside of (Franklin County's Ryan) Timmons, Lamb is the best receiver that we have seen. He's tall. He's physical. He can make those circus catches. He is an outstanding football player."

There are far too many teams making the playoffs and every year people rightly point to some of the first-round blowouts as proof that six classes and four teams from every district is far too many playoff teams.

However, cutting teams would also rob us of seeing teams like Montgomery County, a No. 4 seed, whip top-seeded Cooper.

That was the only such upset in Class 5A.

We'll see you at Warford Stadium Friday night.

ROSE

Question: How did you get started playing football?

Rose: Brad Briscoe told me (2008 all-state kicker) Sam Williams had just graduated and the team needed a kicker and I should try out for that.

Question: How long have you played soccer? Is that a first love?

Rose: Yes. I have played soccer since I was three.

Question: You have had a pretty strong soccer career as a defender. What do you see as the highlights and lowlights of your soccer career?

Rose: We never won a district so that's not very good, but we have had a bunch of good seasons.

Question: Do you remember that first time you kicked?

Rose sported a sheepish grin: "Yeah, I didn't get a good foot on it that time. I was nervous. That was my first kick."

(Rose's first extra point was in the Bearcats' opener at Garrard County in 2009. The kick barely made it over the cross bar.)

Question: You have not missed many, though, have you?

Rose: "I missed a couple that first year. I missed one my junior year and one my senior year."

(Rose has hit 156-of-161 extra point attempts in his career at Anderson. He has also hit on 7-of-10 field goal attempts but his longest has only been 26 yards. He missed from 37 against Henry County in 2010.)

Question: What is your range as far as field goals?

Rose: "It is between 45 and 50 depending on how I kick it."

Question: What is your best football memory?

Rose: "Last year at South Oldham when I was able to execute the onside kicks and help us come back."

Question: Your dad (a Texas native) told me about your trip to Texas this summer and getting to visit Cowboys Stadium. Did you get to kick on the field?

Rose, a Cowboys' fan: "Yes, we brought our football so we could kick on it. That was exciting."

Question: One thing we have noticed is that during games, you are off to yourself. Does it get lonely on the sidelines?

Rose: "Yes, sometimes it can be lonesome, but I have my brother (sophomore Joe Rose, his backup) over there.

"I try to stand near where we will be scoring so I can be ready."

Question: What about college? Some have contacted you about football. Has anyone contacted about soccer?

Rose: "No, I am not really interested in (playing) soccer in college. I have never really tried to get anybody to look at me."

Question: What about football? Who is interested?

Rose: "Lindsey Wilson, Campbellsville, and Hanover so far have been in contact."

Question: What do you plan to study?

Rose: "Exercise science."

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE

In order to comply with the orders of the Anderson Circuit Court, the Master Commissioner will sell the property described in the following actions on Thursday, November 17, 2011, at 11:00 a.m. in the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The property shall be sold to raise the amounts hereinafter set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):

(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner. The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.

(2) PLEASE NOTE: The real estate SHALL BE SOLD SUBJECT TO ALL city, state, county, and school real estate taxes, whether current or delinquent.

(3) Where the real estate has insurable improvements, the successful bidder shall, at his or her own expense, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner or the appropriate Plaintiff. Failure of the successful bidder to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the successful bidder's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff(s) to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the property portion thereof shall be charged to the successful bidder as the successful bidder's cost.

(4) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon excepting easements and restrictions of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption which may exist in favor of the United States of America or the Defendant(s), and any matters disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.

3. All properties sold for less than two-thirds of appraised value subject to current owner statutory right of redemption pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statutes.

That's how many Kentuckians, on average, read each copy of a newspaper.

You see, one reads it, then passes it on.
Then another reads it and passes it on.
And so forth.

So if you're trying to reach Kentuckians, advertise in the newspaper.

Pass it on.
